ABSTRACT

Outlined is the National Library of Medicine classification system for medicine and related sciences. In this system each preclinical science, such as human anatomy, biochemistry or pathology, and each medical subject, such as infectious diseases or pediatrics, receives a two-letter classification. Under each of these main headings numbered minor headings are found. For example, under human anatomy (QS) one finds general works (4), addresses, essays and lectures (9), and dictionaries and encyclopedias (13). This volume also gives a special classification scheme for nineteenth century publications and an index to the classification system. (BB)

PREFACE

This 1978 edition of the NLM Classification is a complete revision of the third edition that was published in 1964 and reprinted with changes in 1969. Although few classification numbers have been changed, many have been expanded and new concepts added.

Many people have helped with this revision of the Classification. Emilie Wiggins, Head of our Cataloging Section, was editor. Teresa Gill (and earlier Clair Tozier) assisted the editor full time for almost a year and a half. Stella Schehl and Thelma Charen reviewed the index entries and offered many suggestions that have been adopted. Lillian Kozuma assumed most of the administrative duties of the Head of the Cataloging Section during the revision period. John Cox, from the Office of Computer and Communications Systems, provided the programing support and was responsible for computerized production of the Classification Schedules and Index. The machine-readable file will enable complete revisions of future editions on a timely basis. Many of the subject specialists in the Library offered invaluable help in their special fields. Particular thanks are due to Dr. Clifford Bachrach and his predecessor, Dr. Norman Shumway, to Ruth Stander, Edith Calhoun and Dr. Fritz Gluckstein. Finally, the National Library of Medicine would like to thank the Library of Congress for the use of its facilities in the Subject Cataloging Division and for the assistance of its specialists in veterinary and general medicine, Kay Brodney and Lynn El-Hoshy.

The Classification (exclusive of the index) was reviewed and criticized by the following:

East Tennessee State University College of Medicine Library,
    Doris Bolef and Martha Whaley

University of Arizona Medical Center Library,
    Thomas Higdon

University of California, Los Angeles, Biomedical Library,
    Susan Gullion and George Scheerer

University of Southern California, Norris Medical Library,
    Ruth Traister

Washington University School of Medicine,
    Deborah Yedlin

Many of their constructive suggestions were incorporated into the final publication. This has been an undertaking of major proportions; all who served to complete this task deserve our gratitude and commendation.

INTRODUCTION

The National Library of Medicine Classification was developed in 1951. It covers the field of medicine and related sciences, utilizing schedules permanently excluded from the Library of Congress Classification: QS-QZ, and W. The various schedules of the Library of Congress Classification supplement it for subjects bordering on medicine and for general reference material. The LC schedules for human anatomy (QM), microbiology (QR) and medicine (R) are not used at all by the National Library of Medicine since they overlap the NLM Classification. On the other hand, LC's psychology schedule (BF), sociology (H), science (Q-QP and other QM), and bibliography (Z) are used extensively. Other schedules are used as needed. In the index, subjects are assigned LC numbers when apropriate.

The Library only applies subject classification to items treated as monographs. Serial publications are separated by form and are assigned call numbers within several broad categories. For details, see p. xi.

The headings for the main schedules (e.g., Musculoskeletal System) are given in brief form. They should be interpreted broadly as encompassing the physiological system, the specialty or specialties connected with it, anatomical regions chiefly concerned, and subordinate related fields. Within the schedules, division by organ usually has priority. A work on a particular disease is classified with the disease, which in turn is classified with the organ or region chiefly affected, regardless of special emphasis on diet, drug, or other special form of therapy.

Books dealing with several subjects that fall into different areas of the classification should be classed by emphasis, or if emphasis is lacking, by the first subject treated.

FORM NUMBERS

Under each main schedule (as well as in some sections, e.g., WO 201-233.1) the numbers 1-33 have been uniformly assigned, with minor deviations dictated by the nature of the material. This edition integrates all possible form numbers into each schedule while previous editions implied these numbers.

GEOGRAPHIC SUBDIVISION—TABLE G

Geographic subdivision is provided for certain subjects in the NLM schedules by the application of Table G (see p. xxxv). The use of geographical breakdown is restricted to those classes which are marked "Table G" in the schedules. Works on subjects that are divided by geographic breakdown may contain material that is broader in coverage than the areas represented in the Table G lists. A decimal number .1 is added to the number with the Table G breakdown to separate such materials. Thus WG 11 (Table G) is the number for the history of cardiology in particular geographic areas. WG 11.1 (not Table G) is the number for books with general coverage of the history of cardiology. Libraries in countries other than the United States may want to develop by the use of decimals the number assigned to their country to provide for a more systematic arrangement of the books on their shelves. (See p. xlii for an example).

SPECIAL PLANS

Several types of monographic publications are classified according to special plans: bibliographic and nineteenth century titles and early printed books.

Bibliography. A bibliography within the scope of the NLM Classification takes the class number for the subject, prefixed by a capital Z. Bibliographies outside the scope of the NLM Classification will ordinarily be classed in schedule Z (Bibliography) of the LC Classification.

Numbers for bibliographies are seldom given in the index. Instead a separate section on classification of bibliographies is included in the introduction (p. x).

Nineteenth Century Titles. A simplified subject classification derived from the complete NLM schedules has been devised for nineteenth century (1801-1913) monographs. This abbreviated classification is limited to combinations of letters, with the exception of: W1-6, W 600, WX 2, and form number 22 throughout, for directories. In addition, the entire WZ schedule, History of Medicine, is also used for nineteenth century titles. In applying all LC schedules, except the Z (Bibliography) schedule, the National Library of Medicine only uses letters in conformance to the abbreviated pattern in its own nineteenth century publications.

Nineteenth Century Bibliography. Bibliographies imprinted in the nineteenth century use the Bibliography schedule rather than the Nineteenth Century schedule.

Early Printed Books. Works published before 1801 and Americana are considered early printed books and are a special part of the WZ schedule. Subject arrangement has been eliminated and these books are arranged alphabetically by author within each century or in the Americana number. (See WZ 270 for specific definition by State for the coverage of Americana).

CLASSIFICATION DECISIONS

Something should be said about the basis for decisions that have been made in revising the classification. Many policies have been set in the past. In the interest of preserving the integrity of the collections for which the classification has been used, the general policies have been maintained unless rigid conformity to the past would provide for an arrangement of materials greatly contrary to new developments in medicine and the allied fields.

Although the list of classification numbers that have been changed in the Fourth Edition is long, a close examination will show that the changes are largely of two types:

Subdivision by year and language: Many numbers where a great deal of material has been classed has been subdivided by language and year. Thus in the anatomy schedule, where the Third Edition has one number for general works on anatomy, the following arrangement is now used:

QS
4 General works
4.3 English language, 1978-
4.4 Other languages, 1978-

NLM will be applying these numbers in accordance with our policy for designating year in call numbers. For congresses, reprints and bibliographies, the year of the congress, or coverage of the bibliography, original year of imprint will be the determining factor for choice of classification number. For all other materials, the year of imprint will be the determining factor. For example, if a 1979 imprint is a reprint of a 1960 edition, the imprint will be classified in QS 4. If the work is a new English language edition imprinted in 1978, it will be classed in QS 4.3. If the need arises this practice will be followed in other areas.

Subdivision by topic: Classification numbers that have been used extensively for both general material on a subject and material on specific aspects of that subject have been assigned an additional number which the specific topics are to have a Cutter-like number to arrange them alphabetically on the shelves following works on the general topic:

QW
180 Pathogenic fungi. Mycology
180.5 Specific fungi, A-Z
.A8 Ascomycetes
.B2 Basidiomycetes
.D3 Dermatophytes
.D38 Deuteromycetes
etc.

Drugs: Drugs are classed primarily for their principal action. Little attempt has been made to change the number for a drug that is no longer used extensively for its original purpose, because to do so would require costly reclassification without sufficient justification. Some chemicals formerly given only a toxicology number have now been assigned a number for their drug action. Others have been assigned numbers in the schedules for biochemistry and organic chemistry as well as in pharmacology. As always, materials emphasizing the treatment of a disease rather than the pharmacodynamics of the drug is assigned a classification number for the disease.

Child Psychology: The number for normal mental growth and development of children, WS 105, has been extended to include all phases of child psychology in order to avoid putting general works in NLM's WS schedule and specific topics in LC's BF schedule.

Bacteria: The classication of bacteria as given in the 8th edition (1974) of Bergey's Manual of Determinative Bacteriology has undergone major changes. The QW schedule reflects these changes and numbers given are somewhat different from those in the 1969 reprint of the NLM Classification.

Use of MeSH and Coverage: The Classification has been made to conform to Medical Subject Headings (MeSH) when possible. The Tree Structures have been used extensively to relate headings to each other. The schedules, however, with their special requirements for use of all types and forms of material, defy strict adherence to the hierarchical arrangement of MeSH. Therefore, although the index has been comprised from MeSH headings and references to MeSH headings, the schedules themselves have retained their own character in order to provide for real material, old as well as new, including dictionaries, atlases, directories, and other items which are not suitable for the arrangements found in MeSH.

Some terms appearing in the index represent subjects outside of the current scope and coverage statement of the National Library of Medicine. They are there to cover earlier acquisitions in the Library's collections and to accommodate the need of other biomedical libraries with a scope broader than that of NLM.

Cuttering: The schedules are not a guide to NLM's Cuttering policies as opposed to author or title. A few numbers have been marked to indicate the standard practice of Cuttering from the agency involved or for the biographee. As a general rule NLM uses the Cutter-Sanborn Three-Figure Author Table (1969) modified when necessary in crowded areas.

CLASSIFICATION OF BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Special instructions for the classification of bibliographies are given here in lieu of additional entries in the index. If a number may only be applied to a monograph, an (M only) appears after the heading. If a number may only be applied to a serial, an (S only) appears after the heading. All other numbers may be used for both monographs and serials.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES OF:	CLASS NUMBERS

CLASSIFICATION OF SERIAL PUBLICATIONS

Serial publications are those which are issued in succesive parts and are intended to be continued indefinitely (e.g., periodicals, journals, transactions, annuals, numbered series. They are not classified by subject but by type of publication in seven categories:

Category 1 (Biomedicine)
Serials that are important to medicine and allied fields, with the exceptions noted below, are classed in W1. This importance is interpreted very broadly to include works in psychology, sociology, chemistry, anthropology, and so forth. It includes hospital and government publications that are primarily clinical in nature.

Category 2 (Information Science & General Reference)
Serials that are collected not because of their importance to medicine, but because of their relation to libraries and documentation centers, are classed in the appropriate LC numbers. Included also are general reference publications issued with regular periodicity such as many general biographical dictionaries, the U.S. Government Manual, etc.

Category 3 (Congresses)
Serial publications of numbered congresses, except those that fall in category 2 above, whether local, national or international in scope are classed in W3. (Serial publications of the meetings of one society are classed in W1).

Category 4 (Hospitals)
Serial publications of hospitals (except clinical material) regardless of private or public sponsorship are classed in WX 2. Included in WX 2 are reports of one hospital or of multiple hospitals under one administration when the report for each may be separately identifiable but issued together as a unit. Integrated reports of government administration of several hospitals are classed in W2. Reports of medical research centers which may include the report of a hospital are classed in W1.

Category 5 (Statistics or Administrative Reports)
Serial government publications in medicine and allied fields that are administrative or statistical in nature are classed in W2.

Category 6 (Special Form Numbers)
Certain kinds of publications issued serially are classed in form numbers used also for monographs. For example, directories, whether monographic or serial in nature, are classed in form number 22. Numbers used for both types of materials are marked in the schedules with an asterisk (*).

Category 7 (Indexes and Bibliographies)
Serial publications which are indexes or bibliographies are classed according to the instructions in the section on bibliographies in this introduction. (p. x).

SERIAL NUMBERING

The National Library of Medicine uses a special scheme of numbering to insure the alphabetical arrangement of the large number of serials contained in categories 1 (W1) and 3 (W3). Under this scheme the first two letters of the main entry are used followed by two or more numbers according to the number of entries to be numbered. Examples:

W1 RE359	Revista comercial farmacéutica
W1 RE3594	Revista cubana de gastroenterología
W1 RE743	Revue belge de pathologie
W1 RU76	Russia (U.S.S.R.) Armiia. Trudy
W3 AL545	All-India Pharmaceutical Conference
W3 CO263	Congrès français de stomatologie

Because the NLM Shelf List has been so crowded by the continued influx of new serial titles, a new device has recently been introduced. Where desirable, instead of using two letters mnemonically plus two to five Arabic numerals, NLM uses the two letters plus two or three Arabic numerals followed by capital letters used just as the additional Arabic numerals had been used. In this way the numbers can be expanded by multiples of 26 instead of by multiplies of 9. Examples:

W1 RE 419	Revista de medicina. México.
W1 RE 419E	Revista de medicina. Recife.
W1 RE 419H	Revista de medicina. Rosario de Sante Fé.
W1 RE 419L	Revista de medicina. São Paulo.

Thus, there are still available W1 RE 419A–D, W1 RE 419F–G, and so on, before it becomes necessary to use W1 RE 42.

INTRODUCTION TO THE INDEX TO THE CLASSIFICATION

The index to the National Library of Medicine Classification consists of entries from Medical Subject Headings (MeSH) for all major terms used by the NLM Cataloging Section. Terminology has been updated to be consistent with the 1978 MeSH. Major terms are arranged in alphabetical order with sub-terms indented under them. Each major term and indented term is followed by a classification number or range of numbers. (See par. 7.7 in this introduction for an exception).

Alphabetized with the major terms are reference terms. Some reference terms are in MeSH, but not all MeSH references are included. Non-MeSH reference terms are: subjects included in indexes to earlier editions of the Classification; some synonymous terms used by the Library of Congress; and other terms that appear to be useful to the cataloger. An asterisk preceding a term identifies it as a MeSH minor descriptor, a "see under" reference in MeSH 1978. No other types of reference terms are identified.

The classification numbers assigned to the major terms are usually general numbers for the concept represented or numbers reflecting a medical slant when that concept seems more appropriate. Indented terms are used to represent aspects of the subject that are more specific or aspects of the subject which have been assigned a number different from the general number. The indented terms are often eliptical and should be interpreted broadly. For example, when "Organic chemistry" is used as a term indented under the name of a chemical, the number following is to be selected if the principal topic of the work being classified is the organic chemistry of the chemical. Some subheadings refer the user to another heading. See also references or general references are listed at the end of the alphabetical sequence under the major term.

Electrodes QD 571
  Biomedical engineering QT 34
  In electrotherapy WB 495
  Used in various analytical procedures, with the procedure, e.g. in urine analysis QY 185
  See also Microelectrodes QT 34, etc.

INDEX DECISIONS

The following decisions have been made and should be recognized as one uses the index:

1) The number assigned to a heading should not be used unless the heading represents the principal subject of the material being cataloged.

2) The index is not a substitute for the main schedules. A user should always refer to the schedules for confirmation of the proper application of the number and its relationship to other numbers.

3) Many headings are assigned a range of numbers rather than a specific number. The main schedules are the only source of the meaning of specific numbers within the range.

4) The index is not a substitute for MeSH. Major terms that as yet have not been used by NLM catalogers exist in MeSH and should be used as needed. Moreover, many annotations and relationships will be found only in the MeSH Annotated Alphabetic List and Tree Structures. They should always be consulted when subject headings are being assigned.

5) The number of indented terms under a major term (even similar major terms) varies greatly. The choice is dependent upon the needs that have arisen in the past. Therefore, the list is in no way exhaustive of the possibilities that may arise.

6) There are several thousand major terms in the index. Many major terms are found only in the index and therefore, will not appear in the schedule. They refer to a number in the schedule where only a broader term or related term appears.

7) Cross References: There are several types of cross references in the index.

7.1 A reference term to a major term where any or all numbers assigned to the major term apply also to the reference term.

Epidemic hemorrhagic fever see Hemorrhagic fever, Epidemic WC 534

7.2 A reference term to a broader major term where only one number assigned to the major term applies also to the reference term. The one number is given, followed by "etc."

* Eye protective devices see Protective devices WW 113, etc.

7.3 A reference term to several major terms when no one major term represents the entire concept of the reference term.

Abrasions see Dermabrasion WO 600; Tooth abrasion WU 140; Wounds and injuries WO 700-820

7.4 Under major terms, an indented term to another major term.

Absorption
  Of food WI 102
  Skin see Skin absorption WR 102

7.5 General references following all subheadings. A general reference appears in the Electrodes example above.

7.6 See also references under an indented term if it is related to the indented term. If the see also reference is related to the major heading only, it follows all indented terms and general references. The latter is represented in the Electrodes example above. The former is represented here.

Mental healing WB 880-885
  Faith cure WB 885
    See also Christian science WB 885

See also references ordinarily mention only one number or range of numbers for the referred major term. If more numbers are listed under that major term in its own alphabetical position, "etc." follow the number in the see also reference.

7.7 See also references leading the user from one major term to another major term under which are listed indented terms that apply equally to both headings.

Accidents, Home WA 288
  See also specific terms under Accidents

Note when "etc." follows a number in any type of reference, it indicates that besides the numbers given in the reference, there are other numbers which also represent the major term. The user will find these other numbers listed under the main entry for the major term.

7.8 A cross reference does not give a subject heading instruction. There is a cross reference Coronary arteritis see Arteritis WG 300, etc. Coronary disease also should be used as a subject heading, but it does not show up in this classification index.

8) Drugs, etc.: Numbers following terms for drugs, chemicals, and biological agents are for biochemical (QU); pharmacological (QV); and/or in the LC chemical (QD) aspects. In the index, rarely is a number given for these agents when the material being cataloged discusses their use in the therapy of a particular disease or in a particular experimental study. In such cases the classification number to be selected is that for the disease or experiment.

9) Use of Library of Congress Numbers: Library of Congress numbers have been assigned to subjects that fall partly or entirely outside the scope of NLM's usual fields, medicine and the preclinical sciences. These numbers are likely to be in the fields of psychology, sociology, the sciences, computer areas, library science and veterinary medicine. However, LC schedules are not completely excluded, except those for human anatomy, microbiology and medicine. Others, such as QP Physiology, which includes numbers for works on the physiology of wild animals, are occasionally needed for books in biomedical libraries. Some of the policies followed in selecting LC numbers are listed below.

9.1 NLM rarely uses LC's K schedules. It prefers to class laws with the subject even in applying LC classification. General legal dictionariesand the U.S. Code are among the notable exceptions of works that are classed in the K schedules.

9.2 LC numbers have been searched in the LC master schedules and shelflist. A number has been assigned only if it appears in the master schedules as of 1977, with one exception. When the schedules say something such as SF 910 Other diseases, A-Z, but no number has been assigned by LC for a particular disease represented in NLM's collection, NLM has assigned a Cutter-like number based as far as could be determined on LC practice. These NLM assigned numbers are followed by an asterisk, in the index.

9.3 Occasionally a concept represented in MeSH has no exact equivalent in LC. In such cases NLM has selected a number that seems to fit the concept most closely. Rarely has NLM had to use an LC number where no very similar LC book is classed.

9.4 Not all LC numbers assigned appear in the latest published LC schedules. These were selected from LC Classification Additions and Changes or from the master schedules at the Library of Congress.

NUMBERS ADDED, CHANGED, OR DELETED

The following is a list of new numbers added to the Fourth Edition of the National Library of Medicine Classification. It includes numbers added since 1964 even though many have been included in "Additions and Changes to the NLM Classification." It does not include numbers added to separate material published after 1977, nor those added for general coverage following Table G numbers. It does not include numbers for which terminology has been changed to make names more up-to-date or to make numbers more inclusive.

The column on the right gives an approximation of where the material was formerly classed. Sometimes the number given reflects only where it was most often classed. "Various places" indicates that no "most often used" number was found. "None" indicates that the number was added as soon as NLM had material on the subject or on the specific aspect of the subject represented by the new number.

Although a notation may indicate that a subject was formerly classed in a particular number, that number may still be acceptable for material that represents the subject in another aspect.

The list is given primarily to provide a quick overview to catalogers who are accustomed to the numbers in the Third Edition of the classification and to assist those, using NLM's old book catalogs, who want to know where NLM would class the material now.

TABLE G

Purpose. The principal use of Table G is in the arranging of serial publications of governments, which take the form class W2; and hospital publications, which take the form class WX 2. Use of Table G permits a shelving order which is controlled both geographically and alphabetically

Table G is also used, on a somewhat restricted basis, for geographic grouping of monographs.*

General Explanation. Table G is a modified Cutter pattern, adapted for special purposes. It divides the world into ten regions to each of which an identifying letter is assigned:

A—United States
D—America
F—Great Britain
G—Europe
H—Africa
J—Asia
K—Australia
L—Pacific Islands
M—International
P—Polar Regions

Additional numbers may be interpolated into Table G as needed. Variants of place names do not require a change in Table G numbering (e.g., JT3 Siam or Thailand).

Countries and regions, other than the United States, are provided with numerical designation on the basis of medical as well as geographical and political considerations. This means that Table G, in addition to its main purpose, makes provision for geographical groupings which cannot be used to indicate source of material, publishing agency, or authorship (e.g., GA1—Europe; DA2—North America).

United States Numbers. Because of the multiplicity of publications pertaining to the United States and of U.S. Federal, state and local documents, special provision has been made for their arrangement.

Works pertaining to the internal affairs of the various sections of the U.S. Federal Government, with the exception of the Armed Forces, take the designation "A".

Those pertaining to the internal affairs of the Armed Forces take the following designations:

A1 Department of Defense
A2 Department of the Army (War Department, excluding Air Corps)
A3 Army Air Forces (to 1947)
A4 Department of the Air Force
A5 Department of the Navy

 Note to users of Medical Subject Headings (MeSH) for cataloging: Whenever Table G is applied to an NLM number (or any LC number is divided geographically) catalogers may use the appropriate geographic subheading with any or all MeSH terms.*

When geographic subdivision is to be used for books pertaining to the United States but not pertaining to the internal affairs of specific Government departments, AA1 is used. AA1 is used also for geographic subdivision by two or more states or territories of the United States, unless there is a number for the region covered.

Each state has been provided with a separate number. New York City has a separate number assigned to it (AN7). This has been done in order to differentiate it adequately from New York State (AN6) and to provide a simple notation for this entity because of its size and prolific publications.

Subordinate Political Units. Each country number may be modified to form a county (province, prefecture, state) or a city number by the addition of .1 (county) and .2 (city). Examples:

FE5—England
FE5.1Y6—Yorkshire
FE5.2L6—London
DC2—Canada
DC2.1B7—British Columbia
DC2.2T6—Toronto

In the United States it is the individual state number which is so modified. Examples:

AT4—Texas
AT4.2F6—Fort Worth

This modification has been used in W2, W 22, WA 540, WA 546, and WA 900.

Application to Serial Documents. Examples to illustrate the application of Table G to serial documents (W2):

United States

W2	U.S. Army. Air Corps. Materiel Division
A3	Air Corps technical report
M4te
W2	Connecticut. Commission on Alcoholism
AC8	Annual report

W2	Gt. Brit. General Register Office
FA1	The Registrar General's quarterly return . . .
G3re
W2	Saskatchewan. Dept. of Public Health
DC2.1	Annual report
S2D3a

Application to Hospital Serials. Hospital serial reports (WX 2) are Cuttered to arrange the titles geographically within the class and to identify each hospital. Decimal subdivisions .1 and .2 for subordinate political divisions are not used but a notation is added to represent the city. Examples:

Civilian hospitals

WX	Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles
2	Annual report
AC2
L6C3a
WX	Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital of Philadelphia

WX	St. Luke's Hospital, Jacksonville, Fla.
2	Annual report
AF4
J2SL2a

WX 2 FE5 L8ST4a	St. Thomas's Hospital, London Annual report

U. S. Military Hospitals. Named hospitals have fixed locations and are Cuttered the same way as civilian hospitals except that the military symbol precedes the geographical notation. Numbered hospitals did not have fixed locations and geographical notation is not applied to them.

WX 2 A2D6 W2a	Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D.C. Annual report
WX 2 A2 141	U. S. Army General Hospital No. 141 Year book

Application to Monographs. Table G is used to express geographical groupings for subjects in the NLM Classification. When LC Classification numbers are used, the geographical breakdowns provided in the LC schedules are to be applied.

Table G is used for monographic titles on a broader basis than for serials. For example, a history of medicine limited to one city, or to one section of a country, takes the geographic notation for the country, or for the smallest area below the national level that has its own number listed separately in Table G. A further breakdown has been used in crowded areas on rare occasions, notably in WA 540, WA 546, and WA 900.

WZ 70 AI6	The history of medicine in Madison County, Indiana
WZ 70 AM3	Medicine in Maryland
WZ 70 FA1	The English country doctor in the province of Canterbury
WM 11 GG4 P9	Psychoanalyse in Berlin
WA 900 JI4.1 W5D5h	Health on the march, 1948-1960, West Bengal D5 is for the Directorate of Health Services of West Bengal which issued the publication

AUSTRALIAN TABLE EXPANDED

This table is an example of how a country other than the United States might wish to expand its number. Actually, it is the way in which NLM can and does expand Table G single numbers for countries. It does the expansions on an ad hoc basis, however, and therefore does not write them into its schedules.

QV

PHARMACOLOGY

Works that are classed in this section deal with pharmacology in general or with the pharmacology of individual drugs or of types of drugs grouped according to their specific action. Works on individual drugs are classed according to what is considered to be the drug's principal action. Works about most drugs are classed in the number selected even when the work is about the toxicology of the drug rather than its pharmacology. If, however, the material deals with the use of a specific drug in the treatment of a particular disease, it classes with the disease. In selecting numbers for works on drugs not indexed, the same pattern should be followed. Classify works on the purely chemical or technological use of chemicals in QD or in the T schedules.

Works on plants from which drugs are derived are sometimes classed as the drug would be classed.

Classify works on vitamins in QU; on endocrine preparations (including synthetic substitutes) in WJ, WK, or WP; and non-endocrine biologicals in QW. Note that occasionally agents are classed together because they are frequently treated together regardless of their different action, e.g., sulfur and sulfur compounds in QV 265. The section beginning with QV 701 is used for classifying books dealing with the general aspects of pharmacy and pharmaceutics, as contrasted with pharmacodynamics. Note that many of the form numbers are used again in this section.

MICROBIOLOGY AND IMMUNOLOGY

Books written on a particular species of bacteria are classed with the order to which that species belongs, according to the classification in Bergey's Manual of Determinative Bacteriology. Where the term microbiology has been used or implied to identify works to be included in classification number QW 1–85, use them for general microbiology and bacteria alone.

QW 1–300	Microbiology
QW 501–949	Immunology

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES

All major systemic infections are to be found here with exception of tuberculosis, which is WF, Respiratory Diseases. A few infectious diseases, usually local in character, are classed with the part affected (e.g., those classed in Dermatology, WR 220–245).

If no specific class number is found for a relatively obscure disease such as pseudoglanders, such material may be classed on the basis of likeness (i.e., in this case, with glanders). Classify material on an infection which affects a single organ with the organ. Note that some related diseases are classed together regardless of the affecting organism, e.g., the pneumonias and the dysenteries.

290 Modern editions of early works
Classify here 1801- editions of works originally published before 1801, except for Americana (Cf. WZ 270). Classify by subject editions of Americana published after the closing date for the particular area, e.g., an 1825 edition of a work with a New York City imprint, originally published before 1820.

* 292 Modern collections of early works
Classify here collections (including those serially issued) which contain pre-1801 works of three or more authors. Classify works of only two authors in WZ 290 with the first author.

294 Modern criticism of early works and bibliographies of single titles
Classify here studies, commentaries, etc, of pre-1801 works on Americana unless they are largely the biography of one or two authors, in which case classify them in WZ 100. Classify in WZ 290 works that include the original text unless it is decidedly subordinate to the commentary. Classify here a bibliography of a single work. Cf. WZ 100 for bibliography of a single author's works.

MISCELLANY RELATING TO MEDICINE, DENTISTRY, PSYCHIATRY, ETC.

305 Anecdotes. Humor. Light verse

305.5 Surgery. Hospitalization

308 Curiosities

309 Folklore. Proverbs. Superstitions

310 Quacks. Quackery

Classify here works the subject of which the author considers quackery. Works on special systems of therapeutics are classed in WB 890–962.

313 Biographical clinics (Diagnosis of diseases of famous persons, derived from records, memoirs, letters, portraits, etc.)

320 Body snatching. Resurrectionists

330 Medicine etc., as depicted in art and literature (critical studies) e.g., Medicine in the works of Rabelais

Cf. WM 49 Art and literature as related to psychiatry.

334 Emblems, insignia, etc.

336 Caricatures. Cartoons

340 Numismatics, philately, bookplates, etc.

345 Medical writing and publishing. Historiography

348 Medical illustration (General)

350 Literary and artistic works by physicians and other association items

Cf. WZ 330 Medicine in art and literature.
